

Wilfred Reilly ✓ @wil_da_beast630 · Nov 20, 2019

The plain fact is: there is a popular claim that the B/W IQ gap is closing. The first sentence of the D&F paper just states that they measure the gap as having narrowed by 5 to 7 points. Given the undisputed state IQ figs, I find that pretty convincing. unz.com/anepigone/stat...

Zach Goldberg ✓ @ZachG932 · Nov 20, 2019

And I'm saying that the popular claim is hollow. The 2019 SAT scores I just linked are not consistent with a 5-7 point gain.

Wilfred Reilly ✓
@wil_da_beast630

State-by-state gains vary, but I posted these too as we debated - the lowest average Black IQ was Alabama (86) and the highest was 97. Again, these are mainstream NAEP or ASVAB-measured scores.

9:01 PM · Nov 20, 2019