

FIGURE D –

NOTE: The horizontal, lateral, and vertical lines all tend to converge around the same spot in the upper-right-hand corner of this tomography plot. For that reason, it is fairly easy to identify the region of the square where the combination of White and non-White candidate support is most likely to appear.