Hi Tony -

Today, we are pleased to share with you the draft legislative district maps proposed by each of the four voting commissioners.

<https://www.redistricting.wa.gov/commissioner-proposed-maps>

The publication of these maps signals the beginning of the negotiation process on the new legislative or Congressional district boundaries, which must be completed by November 15. Next Tuesday at noon, the draft Congressional district maps will be posted at the same location. In addition, shapefiles and pdf maps will be posted at this location within the next 24-48 hours.

Please review the maps and let us know if you or the Tribal Council would like another consultation. Also, please note that, on each of the draft maps, you can create comments by hitting a button in the top right corner. If you need help with any of these processes, feel free to contact Daniel or myself.

With best regards,

Lisa

Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation

Established by the Treaty of June 9, 1855

Re: Yakama Nation Support For Proposed Legislative And Congressional District Maps

Dear Chair and Commissioners,

The Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation ("Yakama Nation") Tribal Council met with members of the 2021 Redistricting Commission ("Commission") in August 2021 and submitted written comments advocating for single-district representation of the Yakama Reservation ("Reservation") and adjacent Yakama communities. The Yakama Nation is encouraged that every proposed Legislative and Congressional District map is consistent with that important request. Keeping the Reservation in one representative district is critical to the Yakama Nation's advocacy for greater voter participation and political access, services provided to the established communities on- and adjacent to the Reservation, and common-sense incorporation of public safety and natural resource management areas throughout south-central Washington and along the Columbia River.

The Yakama Nation understands that the Commission is subject to state law requirements which cannot be reconciled with all aspects of the Yakama Nation's sovereign status recognized under the Treaty of 1855 ("Treaty") and concurrent federal laws. The Yakama Treaty-territory exceeds 10.5 million acres and includes natural and cultural resources that are reserved in perpetuity under the Treaty to sustain the Yakama way of life. See map attached as Exhibit A. The Yakama Nation's participation in the public redistricting process under state law does not waive, alter, or otherwise diminish the Yakama Nation's inherent sovereign rights or the reserved rights, privileges, remedies, or services guaranteed by the Treaty.

NOVEMBER 4, 2021

Below are specific and responsive comments on the proposed district maps to further assist with the Commission's significant deadline pressure to submit a Final Plan to the Washington Legislature by November 15, 2021. As noted above, the Yakama Nation appreciates the effort demonstrated by every proposed legislative and congressional district map for respecting the political integrity of the Reservation boundary.

Commissioner Piñero Walkinshaw's Proposed Congressional District

The Yakama Nation specifically favors the elements of Commissioner Piñero Walkinshaw's proposed Congressional District 4 because the proposed district (map attached as Exhibit B):

- maintains the political integrity of the federal reservation boundaries for the Yakama Nation, the Confederated Tribes of the Colville, and the Spokane Tribe of Indians;
- incorporates Yakama members and non-Yakama Native Americans living in established tribal communities on the reservations, off the reservations, and on federal trust properties;
- creates shared representative interests in protecting water quality and habitat along a majority of the Columbia River and many of its tributary basins;
- includes critical natural resource management areas for the protection of forests and rivers that provide access to hunting, fishing, and gathering in usual and accustomed areas identified in the Treaty;
- encompasses a large portion of the traditional and cultural areas that the Yakama Nation continues to preserve and protect;
- includes the Yakama Nation's significant human service areas and public safety districts adjacent to the Reservation; and
- boldly creates a district of U.S – tribal interests to represent the largest land base of Indian Country, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 1151, in the Pacific Northwest and also in Washington State's history since its modern era of fully assigned congressional districts.

Commissioner Graves' Proposed Legislative District.

The Yakama Nation specifically favors the elements of Commissioner Graves' proposed Legislative District 14 that (map attached as Exhibit B):

- is consistent with the Yakama Reservation boundary;
- incorporates Yakama members living in established tribal communities off-Reservation and on federal trust property along the Columbia River;
- includes the Yakama Nation's significant human service areas and public safety districts adjacent to the Reservation; and,

DISTRICT MAPS
NOVEMBER 4, 2021

- includes critical natural resource management areas for the protection of adjacent forests and rivers.

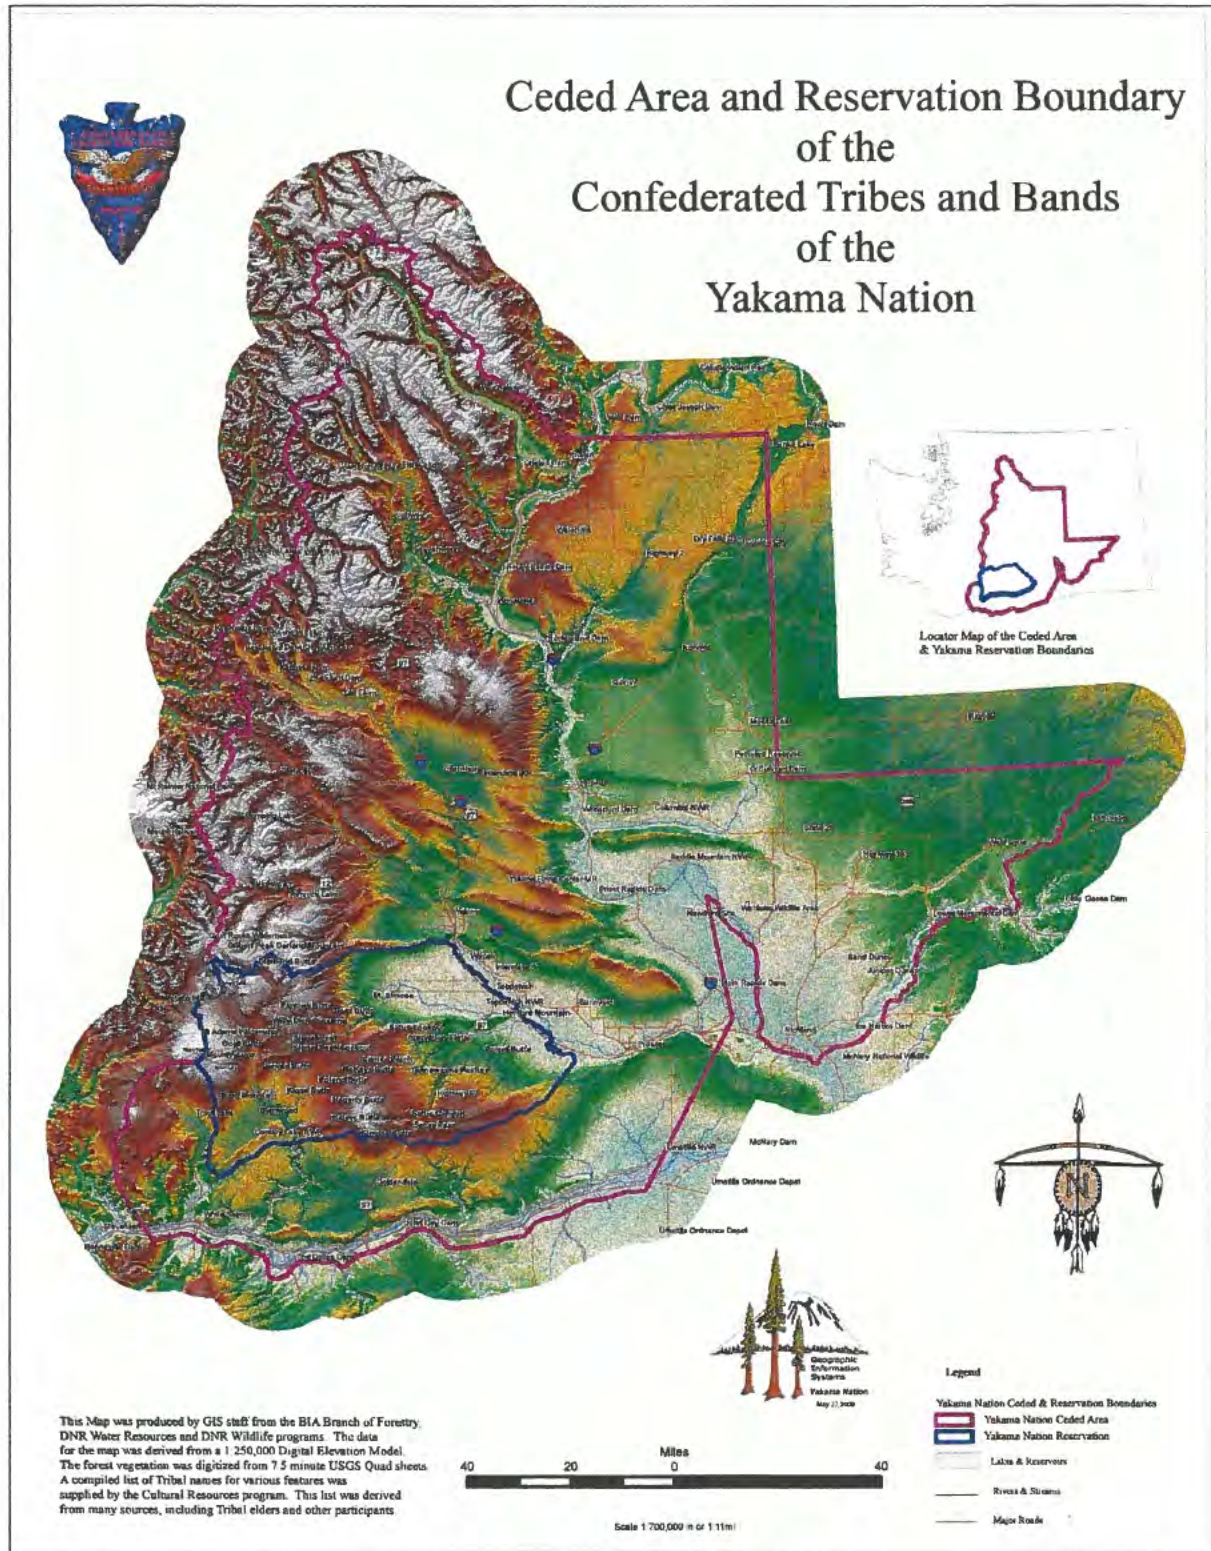

The Yakama Nation has inherent and Treaty-reserved rights that are necessary for the protection of the human and environmental resources for the generations of Yakamas to come. Under the United States system of federalism, gaining equal representation under the law and equitable access to the law-making is also a sacred right that has not always been historically available to Yakamas or indigenous people and governments. I thank the Commissioners for the hard work and attention undertaken by this once-in-a-decade process to produce representative districts that will strengthen the democratic system of government over the next ten years. If you have any questions or concerns regarding this letter, please contact the Yakama Nation legislative staff, Mr. Anthony Aronica, (509) 833-9350, anthony@yakamanation-olc.org or Ms. Dawn Vyvyan at (206) 628-3014, dpvyvyan@outlook.com.

Respectfully,

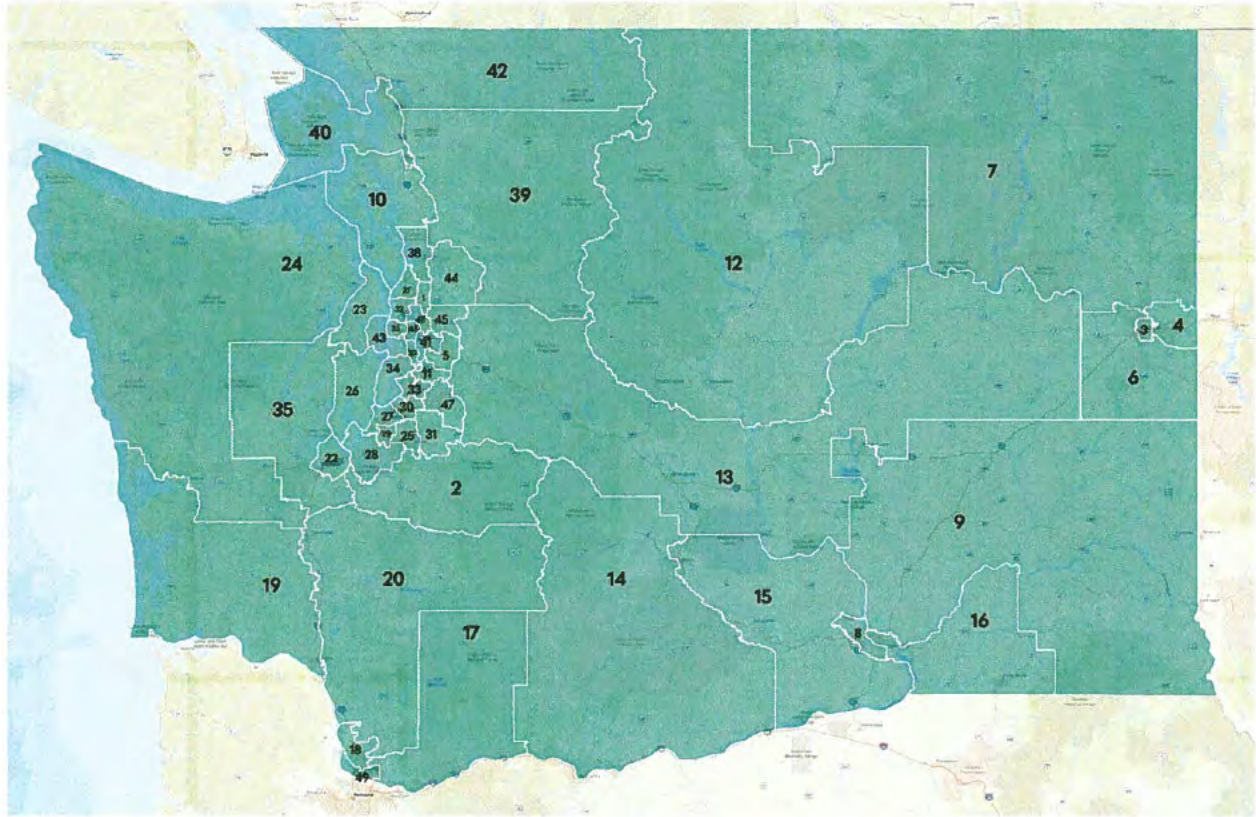

Delano Saluskin, Chairman
Yakama Nation Tribal Council
